Jun 11, 2024 - 09:54 AM — I got my eye on you.

Welcome to the NAF World Headquarters!

The NAF is an international association of players dedicated to Blood Bowl - Games Workshop's game of fantasy football. Our goal is to act as a central resource for Blood Bowl coaches the world over - offering news, contacts, discussion, sanctioned tournaments and international player rankings. Whether you're planning to run your own tournament, looking for a league, or just wanting to catch up on the latest from the world of Blood Bowl, NAF HQ aims to provide everything you'll need.

If you have come straight here rather than via thenaf.net, then do pay the main site a visit - there are forums, articles and the forum, there for news, articles and resources. Enjoy!

Score! for Blood Bowl 2020: Second Season

Score! has historically been the main software used for running BB tournaments. With the new ruleset being released, we now have a whole new version that matches the races in Blood Bowl Second Season.

Score! requires a PC to run, but is completely free and easily customisable, as well as being able to generate an upload file for the NAF database.
You can download a zip archive here.
The current version now supports Gnomes (updated 2024/04/15).

On this instruction page you can find an extension of the original help file for Joris Dorman's Score! program, with more examples of scoring, and a guide for using it with NAF tournaments.
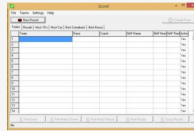

Have a look at examples of scoring codes used by different tournaments.

This guide will explain how you can personalise the Score! HTML output.

Ready to upload? Follow these step-by-step instructions.

An older Spanish Version is also available, thanks to DarthBlu.

If you want to explore alternative tournament scoring software, check out our round-up summary.

In this "Options" section, there's not much to do, but you can adjust "Identify Teams," which has to do with how you differentiate between individuals when making the draw. Essentially, you need to recognize them by their team name, real name, or NAF name when it's displayed on the big screen.

1: Write the name of your tournament.

2: Don't touch

3: Here you write the number of participants; this provides more lines on the "front" so set this number a little to high.

4: Don't touch

5: Don't touch

6: Here you choose whether it's an individual tournament or a group tournament like Eurobowl.

7: Don't touch

8: Here you choose what should be visible, just have them as I have them here.

9: Check that off, not everyone likes to have their real name out there.

10: Here you choose how many points you get for a win, etc.

11: Here you choose which tiebreakers the tournament plays by; they can vary slightly depending on your stance or if the tournament follows a theme, but "Total Score" is always number 1.

Here you enter people's team names; you can be creative or leave it as is, but you should write something different in all of them or it won't work

I prefer to gather all the data from the other fields.

This field is what's shown when the draw is made, unless you change it under "options." See the previous page.

Here you write people's chosen race to play; it's important that it's spelled correctly, otherwise, you'll have trouble uploading results.

Here you write people's names; some out there don't like it, so I just write their NAF coach name.

Here you write people's NAF name; it's important that it's spelled correctly, including capitalization, otherwise, you'll have trouble uploading results.

Here you write people's NAF number; it's important that it's written correctly, no spaces at the end, etc., otherwise, you'll have trouble uploading results.

Sometimes there's nothing, sometimes it says 0.00, just ignore it.

Double-click and it becomes NO. Set them all to NO and use this to register if everyone has arrived by changing it to YES; if suddenly one has to leave the tournament, change it to NO and they won't be included in the next draw.

Traceability and order
Folders and files from Danish Open 2024

1: Miscellaneous items used for one's event.

2: All submitted rosters

3: The folder with the Score program

4: The folder with the Score save files

5: Shortcut from the Score folder for easy access

6: This is your master file; it contains nothing but what you've organized under "options" and "Settings," and you've entered coach data, so you're all set to start your tournament when you open this file.

7: Now you've started round 1 and clicked the "New Round" button to get a draw, you save that file, and you do that every time you press that button.

8: Now that the round is over and you've entered all the results, you save the file before clicking on "New Round."

9: Here's your final file when all rounds have been played; you also need this file if your tournament is part of the Danish Masters series.
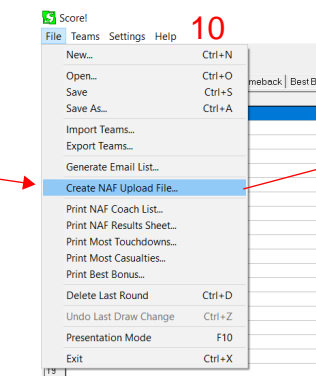

10: Here's your final file that you can get out of the program under "File" and "Create NAF upload file"; this is needed to register the matches with NAF under the event you've created there, to finally conclude your tournament.

You often use this one.

You can definitely do this in other ways, but when the tournament is underway and everything is loud and chaotic, it's just super nice to follow a consistent and easy recipe every time.

AND YOU'RE BOUND TO FUCK UP so backups are nice.

At the bottom of your score file, you have these; you can use them along the way to see Results or Draw in a (perhaps a bit fancier) different way.

Here you get a nice display of the draw. It opens in your internet browser.

It's good practice to cut it out with a clipping tool and paste the clipped image into the facebook event so others from the outside can also follow "live" along with the tournament, and so the players themselves can see which table number they are assigned to play on.

But perhaps you don't do it until the last round to keep some suspense before everyone plays their final match.

All these fields in all rows need to be filled out, otherwise it'll get messed up.

NOTE: Here you can see that an opponent is missing; this is because of an odd number, and therefore, someone gets a BYE. The program automatically figures out who it will be when you press "New Round." I usually give that player a 2-0 win and 2-0 in casualties.

Now you're ready to host a tournament, good luck, and remember, there are many others who can help on the day if we're involved :)

JEWs How to Upload Results
to NAF

That's a good idea to review what actually happens with the files created when you host a tournament. Shall we go through what is done with them step by step?
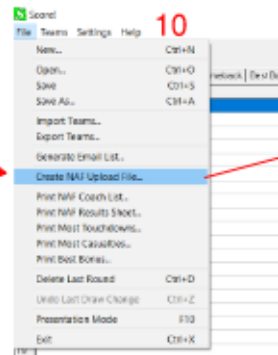

10: Here's your final file that you can get out of the program under "File" and "Create NAF upload file"; this is needed to register the matches with NAF under the event you've created there, to finally conclude your tournament.

This part can be tricky for many, but take it easy; let's see if we can't manage to get through it reasonably well :)

You have your .xml file from the score program and just need to have it placed in the right location, so you're almost there :)

Welcome to the NAF World Headquarters!

In here again

The NAF is an international association of players dedicated to Blood Bowl - Games Workshop's game of fantasy football. Our goal is to act as a central resource for Blood Bowl coaches the world over - offering news, contacts, discussion, sanctioned tournaments and international player rankings. Whether you're planning to run your own tournament, looking for a league, or just wanting to catch up on the latest from the world of Blood Bowl, NAF HQ aims to provide everything you'll need.

If you have come straight here rather than via thenaf.net, then do pay the main site a visit. Here for rankings and the forum, there for news, articles and resources. Enjoy!

NAF Tourneys

Now your tournament is probably gone; you can no longer see it when you come in here, but that's because the date has passed. Just click on 'show all past,' and it will reappear.

NAF

"Now we have the trouble. Either it doesn't come up with any error message, and everything is fine because you've just got everything under control that you entered.

If you go back to 'Report results' for your tournament where you've just been, it looks something like this instead; there are a bunch of names of those who participated in your event.

But unfortunately, it rarely goes like that."

Instead, what probably happens is:

That you receive a bunch of errors regarding some coach NAF numbers and Coach NAF names not matching up. Remember, there shouldn't be any spaces after numbers/names, and it's also important whether it's uppercase or lowercase.

Now that it has given you a list of those with errors, use it. Open a new internet window and your score file in the program so you're ready to edit.

Go to "my coach page."

Then you take the NAF number it said had errors and write it here, then search for it.

So the name here should ideally change to the name you have listed. Perhaps you can already see an error here with the incorrect name/number that don't match up. Then you have to contact the coach unless you know what his name is and it's just a number error. You can also search for the name and thereby get the number.

If you get this message, you've searched for a name or number that doesn't exist. (It's probably something to do with uppercase or lowercase letters or spelling.)

Double-click and copy the name.

Double-click and copy the number.

You can change coach data within the teams section.

Be careful not to let a small space sneak in at the end :)

That applies to everyone on the list of errors that appeared when you tried to upload last time.

Once you've finished with that, you create a new .XML file and repeat the whole process until it doesn't come up with any errors. It's not always that you catch them all on the first try ;)

Your results are uploaded and now you are tired but you are almost there!!!!
